WHARF AND WAVE.

The schooner Mawema has finished discharging and will probably sail for the Coast tomorrow.

The schooner Alice Cooke, which sailed yesterday in ballast for Puget Sound, returns with lumber to this port.

The bark Mauna Ala sailed for San Francisco in ballast at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. She will return to Honolulu with general cargo.

The Norwegian steamer Uller which arrived at New York recently from the West Indies was cleared of her cargo of 21,000 bags of sugar in seventeen working hours.

The bark Alden Besse docked at Brewer's wharf at 7 o'clock yesterday morning with a cargo of supplies for the United States Depot Commissary. She will commence discharging today.

The gasoline fishing schooner Malolo sailed for the Lahai channel about 5 o'clock last evening. Boxes have been prepared for the Malolo's expected catch and fish will be delivered about the city on the Deep Sea Fishing Company's wagons.

D. B. Dearborn is the possessor of three different photographic views of the wreck of spars and rigging of the ship Tillie E. Starbuck which was dismantled in a gale in 1897. The views were taken ten minutes after the occurrence, by a passenger and very vividly portray the fearful havoc done by the elements.—Maritime Register.

The Philadelphia was nine and one-half days making the trip from the Islands to San Francisco, where she arrived on the 9th inst. For the first four days out she encountered strong head winds and as the cruiser stands out of the water like some huge ark, the wind had a great deal of surface to work on and managed to make the trip about two days longer than it should have been.

The steamer Kinau, which arrived from Lahaina last night with a number of passengers and no cargo, reports good weather at that port and at Kaunakakai. All of the machinery for Lahaina plantation was successfully landed last Wednesday and the coal on the following day. The steamer Mauna Loa, bound for Lahaina, was passed between Molokai light and Kaunakakai about 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

The following vessels are along the waterfront today discharging: Barkentine Arago, coal in the stream; bark Amy Turner and ship J. B. Brown, coal on Pacific Mail wharf; bark Buteshire and bark Helen Denny, coal on Emmes' wharf; bark Diamond Head, bark Havfruen and ship Henry Villard, coal on railway wharf; bark Grenada and ship J. A. Briggs, coal on new Port street wharf; ship H. F. Glade, bark Alden Besse and schooner Mawema, merchandise on Brewer's wharf; bark R. P. Rithet, merchandise on Oceanic wharf and barkentine W. H. Dimond, merchandise at Allen street jog. The schooners Emma & Louisa and Aloha are idle in the stream. Seventeen sailing vessels, one man-of-war and one steamer are in the harbor at present.

A Produce Steamer.

The little steamer Iwa, Captain Townsend, came into port shortly after dark last evening with usual cargo of produce for the local market. This business is being conducted by a hui of Island boys and it is doing well. The cargo last night included 170 sacks of potatoes, 10 sacks of corn, 5 crates of turkeys, 3 crates of chickens and 3 head of cattle. There were two passengers aboard. The Iwa came from Makana.

DIED.
